Mission & Purpose

The Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions (RMUoHP) Alumni Association Board (AA Board) was founded to act as the governing body of the Alumni Association.

The Alumni Association works to promote lifelong relations between alumni and the University and provide opportunities for meaningful engagement for alumni and associates. In addition to overseeing the duties of the Alumni Association, the AA Board also serves as a liaison between alumni, university administration, and staff.

The Alumni Association and the AA Board strive to enhance the overall alumni experience, build community and comradery, and foster lasting connections between alumni and the university. The overall joint mission of the Alumni Association and the AA Board is to contribute to the success of RMUoHP and its graduates. This is to be done by promoting lifelong relations between alumni and the university and by providing opportunities for meaningful engagement.
Board Members

Board Member
Ronald Barredo
PT, DPT, EdD, FAPTA
· Doctor of Physical Therapy (Transitional)
  2005
· Hermitage, TN

Ronald Barredo has a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Therapy from the University of the Philippines, MA in Organizational Management and Doctor of Education (EdD) in Professional Practice from Trevecca Nazarene University, and a Transitional Doctor of Physical Therapy (tDPT) degree from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. Currently, Barredo is a Professor of Physical Therapy at Tennessee State University (TSU) and serves as Dean of the College of Health Sciences at TSU.

Board Member
Andy Boynton
PT, DPT
· Doctor of Physical Therapy 2012
· Caldwell, ID

Andrew Boynton was born and raised in Orem, Utah, where he spent his youth in the national parks of Utah. As a teenager he developed a love of soccer, running cross-country, and traveling internationally while living in Europe. Boynton received his bachelor's degree in Exercise Science from Brigham Young University and attended Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions where he earned his Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT) degree in 2017. He currently resides in Caldwell, Idaho, with his wife, Roni, where he works as clinic director in a private practice outpatient setting.

Professional Development Committee Chair
Klaire Brumbaugh
ClinScD, CCC-SLP
· Doctor of Speech-Language Pathology 2019
· Summit, MO

Klaire Brumbaugh graduated from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions with a clinical doctorate in speech-language pathology in 2019. Brumbaugh's research interests are in the areas of speech sound disorders and clinical supervision with clinical practice expertise in the area of speech and language development in the preschool population. Currently, Brumbaugh is an Assistant Professor of Communication Disorders and the Director of Clinical Services at the University of Central Missouri.
Mike Cheesman graduated from the Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions (RMUoHP) Physician Assistant program in 2017. While at RMUoHP, he had the privilege and honor to serve on the Graduate Student Council, as well as be involved with Physician Assistant Education Association Future Educators program. Cheesman currently works as a physician assistant in orthopaedic surgery seeing patients in the clinic setting and within surgery at Wabash General Hospital in Mount Carmel Illinois, where he has served as the head Athletic Trainer for the past 8 years.

Coleby Clawson is a 2013 Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT) graduate of Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions (RMUoHP). He is currently working as a faculty member in the RMUoHP Physical Therapy department, and he is also the Clinic Director of the Community Rehabilitation Clinic—a non-profit pro-bono physical therapy clinic operated by the RMUoHP Foundation. In addition, Clawson is a PhD student at RMUoHP in the Human and Sports Performance concentration track and enjoys training athletes in a physical therapy and strength and conditioning setting. Clawson enjoys clinical work in the home health and clinical electrophysiology settings and is currently working toward the clinical electrophysiology specialty (ECS) physical therapy board certification. Clawson also enjoys sports, the outdoors, and spending time with his wife and four children.

Glory Dioh-Esona is originally from Buea, Cameroon. She relocated to the United States in 2000 and graduated and received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Georgia Regents University (Augusta University) in Augusta, Georgia, and her Doctor of Nursing Practice Degree with a Family Nurse Practitioner Certification from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. Dioh-Esona currently lives in Atlanta, where she works with Southwest Atlanta Nephrology. She is the first responder in her church health ministry and enjoys participating in health fairs in order to empower people through health education, especially by increasing awareness of the effects of hypertension. She is married, and she enjoys traveling and meeting people from other cultures.
Amy Kashiwa is a Teaching Assistant for the Scientific and Professional Writing (Fall 2019) course at Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. She is the primary author of Occupational Therapy and Veteran Suicide: A Call to Action (Kashiwa, Sweetman, & Helgeson, 2017) and is dedicated to advancing healthcare through leadership and advocacy. Kashiwa is committed to professional advancement by mentoring students and program development. She loves traveling and guest lecturing. When not working, Kashiwa writes Japanese poetry and self-publishes her work on a 1948 Smith & Corona typewriter.

Jason Edsall received a bachelor’s degree in Athletic Training from Slippery Rock University in Slippery Rock, Pennsylvania, in 2002; a master’s degree in Education (Post-Secondary Education) from Salisbury University in Salisbury, Maryland, in 2004; and a PhD in Athletic Training from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions in 2016. Edsall currently works as the Director of Athletic Training and Exercise Science at Chatham University in Orange, California; adjunct teaches at Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions; and is a CrossFit coach at Rising Six CrossFit in Plum, Pennsylvania.

Amy Kashiwa is a Teaching Assistant for the Scientific and Professional Writing (Fall 2019) course at Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. She is the primary author of Occupational Therapy and Veteran Suicide: A Call to Action (Kashiwa, Sweetman, & Helgeson, 2017) and is dedicated to advancing healthcare through leadership and advocacy. Kashiwa is committed to professional advancement by mentoring students and program development. She loves traveling and guest lecturing. When not working, Kashiwa writes Japanese poetry and self-publishes her work on a 1948 Smith & Corona typewriter.

Gwen Morris graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Health Service Administration from the University of Central Florida in 2009, Master of Occupational Therapy from the University of Saint Augustine for Health Sciences in 2011, and a Doctor of Occupational Therapy in 2017. Morris is a Certified Hand Therapist (CHT) and a Certified Lymphedema Therapist (CLT) and practices in Charleston, South Carolina, in a busy outpatient clinic. Morris currently serves as Vice President of the South Carolina Occupational Therapy Association (SCOTA) and as a contributing editor with the American Society of Hand Therapists (ASHT) Times. In addition, she is an adjunct professor at Lenoir Rhyne University in their MOT program. She enjoys running, paddling the local rivers on her stand-up paddle board, and cheering for the Steelers or Knights.
Henry Moscicki is a Certified Family Nurse Practitioner from Batavia, New York. He has a BSN from SUNY Brockport, MSN from the University of Rochester, and DNP from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. He is the owner and operator of Genesee Health Care, a NP practice since 1999. Moscicki is also Medical Director of LeRoy Manor Adult Home in LeRoy, New York, and is a medical provider at the Genesee County Jail in Batavia, New York. Moscicki is also an Assistant Professor of Nursing at St. John Fisher College. He is the President of Delta Sigma Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau and President Elect of the Nurse Practitioner Association of New York, Region 2. He has served on many community boards including one term on the local City Council. Moscicki is married and has two boys. He is an ice hockey coach, and avid golfer. He serves the Catholic Diocese of Buffalo as a Permanent Deacon.

Kelly Potteiger is a certified athletic trainer who is engaged in both education and clinical practice. In addition to her PhD degree from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions, Potteiger holds a Bachelor of Science from Mississippi State University and a Master of Science from the University of North Texas. Her clinical and research focus is selected topics related to athletic training education. She publishes and presents over a broad range of topics related to athletic training, environmental sustainability, and creating interactive academic learning environments to promote best practices. Currently, Potteiger is a Professor of Athletic Training at North Park University.